Creating the Conditions for True Institutional Effectiveness in Student Success” Dr. Michael Baston, Acting Provost and Vice President for Academic and Student Affairs, LaGuardia Community College Session Description: A student-ready college has been defined as one that strategically and holistically advances student success, and works tirelessly to educate all students for civic and economic participation in a global, interconnected society. At student-ready colleges, all services and activities are intentionally designed to facilitate students’ progressive advancement toward college completion and positive post-college outcomes. The success of our students will be defined in part by how the college responds to shifts in the economic landscape. In this session, Dr. Michael A. Baston, nationally recognized for advancing the student success agenda, will describe how institutions can become student-ready by integrating campus based initiatives, leveraging internal and external resources, and incorporating appropriate best practices to form a coherent student success strategy that promotes equity and attainment. Participants will engage in: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Assessing the Current State• Building the Coalition for Action• Making the Case for Change• Establishing the Action Plan
